Portfolio managers comments

Once again, news from the White House has been intense, with an alternation of reassuring and worrying announcements (or vice versa) on trade and geopolitical issues. Visibility remains particularly poor, and a logical wait-and-see attitude is insidiously taking hold among US economic agents. Concerns are emerging about the sustainability of US public deficits and, more generally, about the attractiveness of long-dated US bonds, which explains why 30-year yields are once again hovering around 5%.

At the same time, talks on a possible ceasefire between Russia and Ukraine are at a standstill, demonstrating President Trump's impotence. The NATO summit scheduled for the end of June will probably be accompanied by a significant increase in member states' spending, towards 3.5% of GDP, with a peak of 5% for certain countries close to Europe's eastern border. The defense sector therefore continued its ascent (to the benefit of the fund: Rheinmetall (+26%), Thalès (+10%)), but we initiated profit-taking after some particularly spectacular stock market performances (Thalès reduction).

Against this backdrop, the MSCI EMU posted a performance of 5.56%. Over the month, the fund posted a performance of 6.11%, supported mainly by stock selection.

Among the main contributors to performance, our selection of mid-cap stocks performed well, such as Lottomatica (+17%), GTT (+13%), Bawag (+13%) and Antin Infrastructure (+10%). At the same time, technology stocks in the broad sense of the term (semi, software, payment, Chinese platforms) rebounded strongly. Mirroring the Nasdaq's rebound, our investments in ASML, Adyen, SAP and Amadeus all contributed strongly to performance, as did our exposure to Chinese tech stock Tencent (+13% reported growth in Q1) through our position in Prosus, which owns 25% of Tencent. Finally, the portfolio's financial stocks continued to make a positive contribution (Intesa, KBC).

On the detractors' side, our positions in healthcare continued to suffer from US political risk. However, we remain confident in our main positions: Essilor has a resilient business model, with 75% of EssilorLuxottica sales linked to prescription lenses, and growth prospects for EssilorLuxottica's new markets (Méta connected glasses, Nuance Audio and Stellect). Siemens Healthineers reported very solid results for the third consecutive quarter, with a sharp rise in orders, stabilization in the Chinese market, and a marked improvement in imaging margins. Management has also given us good visibility by quantifying the pricing risk, and the product cycle should enable them to continue gaining market share (photon-counting scanners in particular). The only downside remains the threat of a share sale by Siemens. We believe, however, that increased liquidity and index reweighting will offset this effect, while valuation has become very attractive. Conversely, Sanofi disappointed this month, following an unfavorable announcement on Itekepipimab, one of the drugs intended to take over from Dupixent in the chronic bronchitis indication. We had reduced our position earlier in the year due to the political risk. Since then, the valuation has returned to a very reasonable level, with further research results expected in the second half of the year.

Among our main portfolio moves, we decided to be contrarian by strengthening EssilorLuxottica and UCB, and initiating a position in Novo Nordisk. The world co-leader in anti-diabetes and anti-obesity treatments has been suffering on the stock market since last summer. At the time of its last publication, Novo Nordisk lowered its organic growth target for 2025 (from +16-24% to +13-21%), due to a slowdown in the US under pressure from Wegovy compounding drugs, now banned from sale since May 22. On the other hand, we had not anticipated the forced departure of the CEO, initiated at the request of the Novo Holdings foundation, the main shareholder. The Danish group has clearly underperformed in several areas (R&D, communication, production, US market share) compared with its American competitor Eli Lilly. A change of governance seems appropriate. At the same time, Novo has announced a series of partnerships with mutual insurance companies and distributors to boost prescriptions. In the short term, the publication of full data from the Cagrisema clinical trial, expected at the end of June at the American Diabetes Association meeting, is an important catalyst. On the strength of these factors, and of a once again attractive valuation, we have initiated our first diversification position outside the euro zone. We will continue to limit ourselves to single companies with no equivalent in our eurozone investment universe.

At the same time, we continued to reduce certain risks within the portfolio. In line with our desire to protect our shareholders' capital, we once again reduced our exposure to Dassault Systèmes ahead of CMD, as the Group revised its margin target downwards as early as Q1, and we continued to increase our underexposure to luxury goods stocks by continuing to lighten our load on LVMH. The underlying trend remains very negative, with a drop in sales expected in Q2, even more marked than the 5% decline recorded in Q1. Lastly, our increases were partly financed by profit-taking on positions whose upside potential has been significantly reduced.

Analysis methodology

We develop proprietary models based on our expertise and conviction to add tangible value in the selection of portfolio securities. DNCA's ESG analysis model, Above & Beyond Analysis (ABA), respects this principle and offers a rating that we control the entire construction. Information from companies is the main input to our rating. The methodologies for calculating ESG indicators and our responsible investor and engagement policy are available on our website by clicking here.

⁽¹⁾ The rating out of 10 integrates 4 risks of responsibility: shareholder, environmental, social and societal. Whatever their sector of activity, 24 indicators are evaluated, such as social climate, accounting risks, suppliers, business ethics, energy policy, quality of management.

⁽²⁾ The ABA Matrix combines the Responsibility Risk and the Sustainable Transition exposure of the portfolio. It allows us to map companies to be mapped using a risk/opportunity approach.

⁽³⁾ 1 No poverty. 2 Zero hunger. 3 Good health and well-being. 4 Quality education. 5 Gender equality. 6 Clean water and sanitation. 7 Clean and affordable energy. 8 Decent work and economic growth. 9 Industry, innovation and infrastructure. 10 Reduced inequalities. 11 Sustainable cities and communities. 12 Sustainable consumption and production. 13 Tackling climate change. 14 Aquatic life. 15 Terrestrial life. 16 Peace, justice and effective institutions. 17 Partnerships to achieve the goals.

⁽⁴⁾ 5 transitions based on a long-term perspective of the financing of the economy allow the identification of activities with a positive contribution to sustainable development and to measure the exposure of companies in terms of turnover as well as exposure to the UN Sustainable Development Goals.

*The coverage rate measures the proportion of issuers (equities and corporate bonds) taken into account in the calculation of the extra-financial indicators. This measure is calculated as a % of the net assets adjusted for cash, money market instruments, derivatives and any vehicle outside the scope of "listed equities and corporate bonds".

It should be noted that DNCA Finance changed its non-financial data provider in October 2023 from monitoring negative externalities by the Scope Rating provider to monitoring performance indicators (PAI) by the MSCI provider. This change of supplier and indicator typology prevents DNCA Finance from producing a 3-year ESG performance comparison. Glossary

Beta. Measures the average extent to which a fund moves relative to the broader market. The beta of a market is 1. A fund with a beta of more than 1 moves on average to a greater extent than the market. A fund with a beta of less than 1 moves on average to a lesser extent. If beta is a minus number, it is likely that the stock and the market move in opposite directions.

Correlation coefficient. The correlation coefficient is a measure of correlation. It is used to determine the relationship between two assets over a given period. A positive coefficient means that the two assets move in the same direction. Conversely, a negative coefficient means that the assets move in the opposite direction. The correlation or decorrelation can be more or less strong and varies between -1 and 1.

Dividend yield. Annual dividends per share / Price per share

EV (Enterprise Value). Market value of common stock + market value of preferred equity + market value of debt + minority interest - cash and investments.

ND/EBITDA (Net Debt / EBITDA). A measurement of leverage, calculated as a company's interest-bearing liabilities minus cash or cash equivalents, divided by its EBITDA. The net debt to EBITDA ratio is a debt ratio that shows how many years it would take for a company to pay back its debt if net debt and EBITDA are held constant.

P/B. The Price to Book Ratio is the ratio of the market value of equity (market capitalisation) to its book value. It is used to compare the market valuation of a company with its book value.

P/CF (Share price/Cash Flow per Share). The price-to-cash-flow ratio is an indicator of a stock's valuation.

PER (Price Earnings Ratio). A company's share price divided by the amount of profits it makes for each share in a 12-month period. PE ratios are normally calculated on the base of all the profit made in the period, whether or not the profit is paid out to shareholders in that period.

ROE (Return On Equity). The amount of net income returned as a percentage of shareholders equity. Return on equity measures a corporation's profitability by revealing how much profit a company generates with the money shareholders have invested.

Sharpe Ratio. A way of measuring the historical risk-adjusted return on an investment. It is the average previous return minus the risk-free return, divided by the standard deviation (a measure of risk that looks at the diversion of actual returns from expected returns).

Sharpe Ratio. The Sharpe ratio measures the excess return over the risk-free money rate of an asset portfolio divided by the standard deviation of that return. It is therefore a measure of the marginal return per unit of risk. It is used to measure the performance of managers with different risk policies.

Tracking error. Tracking Error is a measure of how closely an investment portfolio follows the index against which it is benchmarked. It is the difference in the return earned by a portfolio and the return earned by the benchmark against which the portfolio is constructed. For example, if a bond portfolio earns a return of 5.15% during a period when the portfolio's benchmark (say, for example, the Lehman Brothers Index) produces a return of 5.06%, the tracking error is .09%, or 9 basis points.
